About the school:

ESDES is a member of the elite group of French Grandes Ecoles. It shares with the Catholic University of Lyon, to which it belongs, a brand-new campus located right in the historical city center. The school mainly offers an integrated Master's degree program (taught in english and french) to high-school graduates who are admitted through a selective entrance examination. The portfolio of programs is rapidly expanding and now includes a three-year bachelor degree and some executive education. ESDES offers publication bonuses for peer-reviewed publications, following the French CNRS Journals Ranking list or FNEGE Journals Ranking List.

The mission of ESDES is to train students and professionals, through education and research, to create sustainable value, in order to promote the emergence of a responsible economy in an increasingly globalized and digital world. The values underpinning this mission are collective engagement, exemplary behavior, cultural and social openness, and a quest for excellence. Indeed, ESDES graduates have gained a reputation in the market for high employability skills. More than 70% secure permanent positions before graduation and 98% are employed within the next 6 months. About Lyon:

Lyon is a dynamic business hub which ranks second in France after Paris. The surrounding region of Auvergne-Rhône-Alpes also boasts a number of world-leading companies in electronics, clean-tech, and biotechnologies. This makes Lyon the most sought-after employment destination among French graduates and executives.
