The opportunity

The Department is seeking to recruit a Professor / Associate Professor of Accounting to provide leadership in research and teaching across the discipline, to support the development of junior academic staff and produce strong outcomes in publications, research income/grants, and external engagement. The successful candidate will also be expected to contribute to the leadership of the Accounting discipline and Department. This is a continuing, full time position based at the Gold Coast or Nathan campus, but travel will be required to other Griffith University campuses.

This is a continuing, full time position, primarily based at either the Gold Coast or Nathan campus, however the successful applicants may also be required to work across other Griffith University campuses.

About you

The successful candidate will have an outstanding academic or professional profile.

An outstanding academic profile will include excellent research achievements, as shown by a significant publication record, proved ability to secure research grants and contracts, a strong commitment to innovative teaching practices, a record of successful Honours and PhD supervisions, and ability to establish effective links with the professional community and industry partners.

An outstanding professional profile will consist of a history of high profile appointments in the industry, government or professional bodies, and proved ability to engage with the academic community, as shown for instance by previous adjunct or temporary/casual appointments and/or a track record of working in collaboration with academic colleagues on significant research projects and / or the design and delivery of innovative accounting courses and curriculum.

Salary range

Associate Professor, Level D: $136,454 - $150,331 per annum. Salary packaging including 17% employer superannuation contribution: $159,652 - $175,888 per annum.
