Teaches undergraduate courses in leadership and management, particularly leadership theory and application and women's leadership, with the ability to teach other department courses (e.g. individual action and corporate responsibility, introduction to business) in a variety of delivery modalities (e.g., face-to-face, online, hybrid). Prepares instructional materials (e.g., syllabi, teaching materials, exams). Maintains student-centered approach to learning. Provides service, including community outreach to facilitate student learning and community engagement, as well as committee work at all levels (department, college, and university). Excellence in teaching, research (with an emphasis on women's leadership), and academic and professional service will be expected. The person in this position will coordinate with stakeholders across campus on women's leadership initiatives such as brown bag research sessions, a research fellow program, or a speaker series. The role also involves coordinating with government and educational leaders and other stakeholders in the state on women's leadership issues and opportunities.

UVU offers an excellent benefits package which includes a generous leave policy, 12 paid holidays, affordable medical and dental insurance options, life and AD&D insurance, tuition waiver (undergraduate resident) for employee and dependents and substantial employer contribution to a retirement plan.

Required Qualifications:

Graduation from an accredited institution with a PhD in leadership, business administration, or a closely related field required. ABD will be considered.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities:

Knowledge of and demonstrated competence in leadership theory and application with an emphasis on women in leadership. An established publication record in the area of women's leadership or the ability to establish a research agenda in women's leadership.

Demonstrated skills and experience in developing and coordinating undergraduate student programs and activities. Skilled or willingness to develop skill in providing high-quality engaged learning in courses. Evidence of well-developed, collegial, and collaborative communication skills.

Ability to generate, integrate, and facilitate campus, community, and state-wide connections focused on women's leadership. Ability and willingness to provide expert classroom instruction, curriculum development, and program assessment. Demonstrated ability to teach across a spectrum of organizational leadership courses.
