Responsibilities: The primary responsibility of this position is to teach undergraduate and graduate international business courses, assist in developing and delivering study abroad programs, and support the growth of international linkages with elite institutions world-wide. The successful candidate will be expected to bring experience, innovation, enthusiasm, technology, and leadership to their international courses.

Candidates with an industry or governmental agency background with a teaching record in international business operations or related field are strongly preferred. Under typical circumstances, the teaching load for the position will be three to four courses per semester, which includes course development and course management activities. In addition to instructional duties, successful candidates will be expected to help develop, promote, and deliver study abroad programs at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Candidates should be comfortable in teaching different modalities including face to face, online, and hybrid face to face & online. Salary and rank are commensurate with experience.

About the Program: The International Business Operations courses support all undergraduate majors and graduate programs in the Harbert College of Business. At the graduate level, the course is attached to a study abroad experience. At the undergraduate level, the course is an elective that stands alone and has the potential to serve all Harbert College students. The International Business Operations course(s) is also embedded in all summer study abroad programs. Further, the undergraduate course supports Auburn University's Strategic Plan to Internationalize students by being offered to all majors. Harbert's International Study Abroad Programs began 27 years ago and have been delivered on six continents in over 35 countries. Programs range from 10 days for graduate programs to 12 weeks for undergraduate programs.

About the College and University: The Harbert College of Business has a strong tradition of providing highly desirable graduates and generating knowledge that drives diverse business thought and sustainable business practice. The college and its programs consistently rank among the nation's best public undergraduate and graduate business programs. The Harbert College has experienced steady enrollment growth in recent years and currently serves well over 6,000 undergraduate and graduate students through six academic departments offering eight undergraduate majors and multiple Masters and Ph.D. options. In addition, the Harbert College has raised over $130 million in private support during the most recent "Because this is Auburn" campaign. The college pioneered online masters and executive education programs that are now ranked among the very best in the nation. The college has invested in building a nationally recognized faculty that moves thought forward through research, engages with industry, and delivers relevant and current instruction.

The Auburn family values tradition, yet eagerly prepares for the future. Rooted in more than 160 years
