Apply By Email

Job Description

DOE Science, Technology and Policy Program Opportunity – Office of Economic Impact and Diversity-Office of Minority Programs Fellow

<https://www.zintellect.com/Opportunity/Details/DOE-STP-ED-OMP-2024>

This opportunity is located in the Minority Business and Workforce Division (MBWD) of the Office of Minority Programs (OMP) within the Office of Energy Justice and Equity (EJE), Department of Energy (DOE). The Office supports the development and implementation of comprehensive Department-wide policies that strengthen diversity goals affecting minority businesses, minority serving institutions, and historically underrepresented communities.

What will I be doing?

As a participant, you will gain insight into the federal government's role in the creation and implementation of policies and programs that will affect energy technology development. You will also be able to utilize your experience, knowledge, and education to contribute to the implementation of energy policies and programs by applying economic analysis and research to issues of importance to the DOE. Additionally, you will be trained and learn along-side a group of highly-experienced scientists, engineers, and business professionals and be involved in projects that support the DOE mission either in a technical or policy-related area.

Participant Benefits: During the appointment, you will receive a monthly stipend. Stipend amounts are determined by the Office of Energy Justice and Equity, and are typically based on the participant's academic standing, discipline, and experience. A supplemental stipend to offset the costs of health insurance may also be authorized. Participants are required to have health insurance and are eligible to purchase health insurance plans offered through the Oak Ridge Associated Universities (ORAU)'s
